Word is Power (Gospel Rock)

Christon Bank's own. They began as a sungura gospel outfit, but moved into rock after a chance encounter with Joan Jett!

Musique d'Afrique (Rumba)

They're from ZimCongoBabwe. They sing in Lingala. No wait, it's Shona. Or is it Swahili? Whatever, it's sure to be a blast!

Patrick Lupi (Afro-dance)

The Francophone crooner with a distinctly Zimbabwean hip-wiggling beat. Just the thing to start the afternoon off.

Macy and THEREd (Reggae/rock/soul)

It's reggae. With soul. And rhythm. And blues. One planet. One vibe. One love.

Fiddelicious (traditional Irish)

They're delicious. They play fiddles. And they believe in leprechauns. No really, they do.....

Rob Burrell (folk rock)

He of the Mann Friday fame. Back in Zim to serenade the crowds on a Saturday.

Saturday sunset

Main Course

Selmor Mtukudzi (Afro-jazz)

There's musical fame. And then there's musical aristocracy. Guess which one Selmor comes from?

Zimboita (Jazz fusion)

They wowed the crowds at HIFA, and now they bring their high octane musical energy back to Miombo Magic. Get ready to dance!

FootLoose (Rock)

The classic-est rockers of the Zimbabwean classic rock scene. Good old fashioned rock music to dance to.

Saturday 8.30 pm

Dessert

Mokoomba (Afro-fusion)

Once they were smalltown boys from Vic Falls. Soon they'll be global superstars. This year they are Miombo Magic festival goers!

Chikwata 263 (P.M.)

There are other mbira bands. There are other punk bands. But there's only one punk mbira band.

Jam Signal (Funk/house/jazz)

There's no guitarist, vocalist or bass. Surely not?! You won't believe what these youngsters can do with a sax, keyboard and a drumkit.

Saturday midnight

Scooby-Snack

Toby2Shoes (DJ)

The DJ who makes "alternative" look mainstream. One of a kind, yet 100% Proudly Zimbabwean.

The Scientist (DJ)

He's a Hamburger. He's a DJ. He plays electronica. And he's on till very very late.

Sunday 8am

Hair of the Dog

The RetroDuo (Mellow)

Annette and John, beautifully blending piano and sax to wake you up gently.

Gareth and Fletch (Rock Folk)

Veterans of London pubs and Austin Texas sidewalks, these guys have a wider repertoire than Mick Jagger.

SamPaulSusanne (Folk Rock)

It's original. It's cosmopolitan. It's folk-rock at its finest. Watch out for the Darfur Blues!

Tariro neGitare (Afro-soul)

She's a singer and a songwriter and a guitarist. And she has more friends than Rihanna. There's a reason for that...

Sunday 11 am

Full Fat Fry-Up

African Destiny (Contemporary Traditional)

A fabulous contemporary traditional afro-fusion band to warm you up for the afternoon ahead.

Charles Summerfield and the Urj (Funk Reggae)

Back from Cape Town to share his unique brand of funk reggae fusion. He doesn't just warm the crowd - he roasts them!

Sunday 1pm

Back in the Saddle

Drum Café (Drums)

They provide the drums. You provide the beat. An interactive drum-fest to get the endorphins flowing.

Evicted (Afro-rock)

Zimbabwe's finest Afro-Rockers, playing unique, upbeat fusion from their latest album.

Gwarimba (Contemporary Traditional Dance Fusion)

A phenomenal fusion of eclectic Zimbabwean sounds, just out of the studio from recording. These guys will dance you dry!

Sunday 4.30 pm

Coffee

Next Year (Futuristic Fantasy)

Sorry, that's it for this year. Really sad to say goodbye, but eventually it had to happen. But, if you liked the groove and the vibe was right, there's always next year to look forward to. Drive safely!
